

Monica Donaghy, Rick Pierce, Jim DiLauro with Amanda and Maddie create a piece during the event.

Edgar Herrera and Beth Taulson prepare pieces for assembly into lawn furniture that will auctioned as a fund raiser for Habitat.

Habitat for Humanity hosts ‘Spring into Action’

Photographs by Jim Brady

Executive Director Aimee Giroux working with a volunteer.

John O’Farrell, Joe Schebel and Qunneel Arnold at work.

On Saturday, April 13, Greater Springfield Habitat for Humanity, located at 268 Cold Spring Ave, West Springfield, hosted its first “Spring into Action” event, which invited the community to take part in a one-day build at its at location. The event had been postponed from March 23 due to winter weather, but was held to honor March’s Women’s History Month and Habitat for Humanity’s Women Build event. Spring into Action featured goody bags, snacks, a raffle with prize, and a wrap party at Two Weeks Notice brewery. The event featured three teams that ventured to the GSHFH parking lot at 10 a.m. to build pieces of lawn furniture or an outdoor accessory. Finished products will soon be auctioned off with proceeds benefitting GSHFH.

Construction Manager Joe Schebel